SLOW AND STEADY WINS FOR LONG-TERM WEIGHT LOSS

It's human nature to want quick results, especially when it comes to weight loss. But if your goal is lose weight and keep it off, gradual, steady weight loss works best. Losing one to two pounds per week is healthy.

Weight loss comes down to one simple fact. You must burn more calories than you eat. Here are three things you can do to achieve success.

- 1 Aim for 150 minutes of exercise each week. Break it up to meet your schedule. Key: Find an activity you like. If you enjoy it, you'll probably stick with it.
- 2 Control your portions. A serving size is probably less than you think. Meat = deck of cards. Vegetable = baseball. Fruit = tennis ball. Key: Get to know serving sizes.
- 3 Reduce fats and sugars. Choose chicken and turkey over beef. Watch out for sauces. They are often loaded with sugar and fat. Key: Your healthy meal can quickly become a calorie disaster when you add a dressing or topping.

Obesity is Highest Among Middle Age Adults

It's no surprise that the youngest adults have the lowest level of obesity. But the highest levels are not with the oldest adults. It's highest for people 40-59 years old. In that category, African-Americans and Hispanics have the highest levels of obesity. It's never too late to make a change. Simple improvements to your lifestyle can produce long-term health benefits.

Big Benefits of a Little Weight Loss

The good news is that any weight loss means less stress on your body. Dropping your body weight by 5-10 percent is likely to improve blood pressure, cholesterol, and blood sugars. (Health Information Library – 4733)

We have a program to help you lose weight. See the BlueCareFitnessSM article on Page 4.

TennCare Covers PKU Treatments for Babies

Phenylketonuria (PKU) is a disorder in which the body can't process phenylalanine (Phe). Phe is an amino acid in almost all foods. Babies born in U.S. hospitals must have a test for PKU. This test helps find and treat the problem early.

Early treatment can keep symptoms from getting worse. TennCare will pay for PKU tests and treatments. The treatment includes licensed professional medical services and special dietary formulas.

The best way to treat PKU is with a diet of low-protein foods. There are special formulas for newborns. For older children and adults, the diet includes many fruits and vegetables. It also includes some low-protein breads, pastas and cereals.

Beginning at age 3, children should receive TENNderCare well-child checkups every year until they turn 21

Know the Right Time for Antibiotics

Winter is here, which means sick kids and doctor visits. Keep in mind; antibiotics are not always the answer when your child is ill. While antibiotics are effective treating sickness caused by bacteria, they don't help against viruses. Many illnesses are the result of a virus, like:

- Colds or flu
- Most coughs
- Sore throats (not caused by strep)
- Runny noses
- Bronchitis

Also, if your child takes antibiotics too often they may not work well at a time when they are really needed.

When your child's doctor prescribes an antibiotic, you may want to ask:

- What is the illness?
- Is it a virus or bacteria?
- How will the antibiotic help?

Remember, it's always OK to ask the doctor questions.

Does Your Primary Care Provider Match Your ID Card?

It is important to have a primary care provider (PCP). You and your family should always see the same PCP for care. Your PCP will have your health history and can help you make good health care decisions. Now is a good time to see if the PCP you prefer to see is the same one on your member ID card. If not, please call customer service at 1-800-263-5479 and ask to change your PCP.

You can find the most up-to-date list of providers who accept TennCareSelect on our website, bluecare.bcbst.com.

In the future, TennCareSelect may not pay for provider visits and services if they are not from the PCP on your member ID card.

BE AWARE OF THE SILENT KILLER

There are no symptoms of high blood pressure. In fact, it is often called “the silent killer” because people do not realize their blood pressure is out of control until they have a heart attack, stroke or kidney failure.

When you have high blood pressure your heart must work harder to circulate blood through your body. This takes a toll on the heart, and over time the chambers get larger and weaker.

Health Issues Due to High Blood Pressure

- Heart attack
- Heart failure
- Stroke
- Kidney failure
- Loss of vision
- Many others

Check it Regularly

A normal blood pressure reading is less than 120/80. Your systolic number (top number) should be less than 120. And your diastolic (bottom number) should be less than 80. Your primary care provider should check your blood pressure at least once a year. If you know you have high blood pressure, ask your doctor how often to measure it.

Control and Manage Blood Pressure

Your chance of having high blood pressure increases with age. However, your lifestyle plays a big role in what those numbers say. Ask your health care provider what you can do to maintain a healthy heart and blood pressure. (Health Information Library – 3631)

ORAL HEALTH FOR PREGNANT WOMEN

Did you know that the health of your mouth could affect the health of your unborn baby?

Bacteria (called plaque) in your mouth cause gum disease – an infection in your gums. Not taking care of your mouth allows the plaque to build up. It can cause your gums to swell up and become red and bleed easily. When you are pregnant the hormones in your body change and that can also cause swelling of your gums.

The infection in your gums may cause changes in the hormones in your body. Those hormones help your body to know when to deliver the baby. Gum disease and hormone changes could cause you to deliver your baby too early.

Here are some things to look for to find out if you might have gum disease:

- A bad taste in your mouth
- Bad breath that doesn’t go away
- Red, bleeding or swollen gums

5 WAYS YOU CAN PREVENT STDs

Sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) spread from one person to another by skin-to-skin contact. STDs can be dangerous to your health. Don't count on someone else to protect your health. Here are five ways to reduce your risk for STDs.

1 Abstinence The very best protection from STDs is to not have sex of any kind (i.e. anal, vaginal or oral).	2 Get the Right Shots  Vaccines are safe, effective ways for sexually active people to prevent hepatitis B and HPV. HPV vaccines for males and females can protect against some of the most common types of HPV. The HPV vaccine is given in three doses over six months. You should also get a shot for hepatitis B if you have not had one.
3 One Partner Mutual monogamy means you are sexually active with only one person and that person is only sexually active with you. Be certain neither of you is infected. Staying with a healthy partner long term is a reliable way to avoid STDs. Be open and honest with your partner.	4 Fewer Partners Lower numbers of partners means lower risk for STDs. That doesn't mean you have no risk. Make sure you and your partners get tested. And share your results with each other.	5 Condoms  Correct and regular use of the male latex condom is very helpful in reducing the spread of STDs. Use a condom every time you have anal, vaginal, or oral sex.

Kids Get Depressed Too

Children and teens go through many phases. And like adults, they can get the blues. When these feelings don't go away it may be depression. The chance of developing depression doubles for girls when puberty begins. Until that point, the rate of depression is about the same for boys and girls.

Here are some signs to look for in your child:

- Says they're sad, bored or that no one likes them
- Spends more time alone
- Stops playing with friends
- Change in grades
- Talks less
- Change in eating habits
- Trouble falling or staying asleep
- Big mood changes

If you see a troubling change in your child, talk to your child's doctor. The doctor may find there is a health problem or can refer you to someone who treats children with depression. You can also call the crisis hotline at 1-855-274-7471. (Health Information Library – 3722)
